

Short Story "First Take" Analysis (30 points)

Consider all the short stories we've encountered so far:

Boys & Girls                      Where Are You Going? Where Have You Been?                      A & P
The Lottery                              The Yellow Wallpaper    An Act of Vengeance

1. Which is the most compelling story? Why?
2. Offer your interpretation on a theme for this story & support it with a short, but well-considered explanation utilizing at least two (2) elements of text support.
3. Who's the most compelling character? Why? (Use at least 2 elements of text support) (Can be from a different story than above)
4. What's the most interesting use of any other literary element (setting, symbolism, POV, etc.), and HOW does it contribute to the story's theme? (AGAIN, use at least 2 elements of text support.)

Short Story "First Take" Analysis (30 points)

Consider all the short stories we've encountered so far:

Boys & Girls                      Where Are You Going? Where Have You Been?                      A & P
The Lottery                              The Yellow Wallpaper    An Act of Vengeance

1. Which is the most compelling story? Why?
2. Offer your interpretation on a theme for this story & support it with a short, but well-considered explanation utilizing at least two (2) elements of text support.
3. Who's the most compelling character? Why? (Use at least 2 elements of text support) (Can be from a different story than above)
4. What's the most interesting use of any other literary element (setting, symbolism, POV, etc.), and HOW does it contribute to the story's theme? (AGAIN, use at least 2 elements of text support.)