

“Students in the Hands of An Angry Principal”

Imagine that FHS has just hired a new principal, Mr. Toughlip. Using Jonathan Edwards’ sermon as a model, write a modern day speech that Mr. Toughlip might make in front of an audience of students. Assume he views all students as potential troublemakers and is addressing them in the FHS Auditorium with language designed to intimidate them & frighten them into being good.

- Use strong & appropriate language
- Choose a specific “sin” (e.g. throwing spitballs) to focus on
- Include powerful, emphatic opening & closing statements
- Incorporate figurative language (e.g. simile, metaphor)
- Should be about 1 page, single-spaced (take it and run with it!!)

30 points

“Students in the Hands of An Angry Principal”

Imagine that FHS has just hired a new principal, Mr. Toughlip. Using Jonathan Edwards’ sermon as a model, write a modern day speech that Mr. Toughlip might make in front of an audience of students. Assume he views all students as potential troublemakers and is addressing them in the FHS Auditorium with language designed to intimidate them & frighten them into being good.

- Use strong & appropriate language
- Choose a specific “sin” (e.g. throwing spitballs) to focus on
- Include powerful, emphatic opening & closing statements
- Incorporate figurative language (e.g. simile, metaphor)
- Should be about 1 page, single-spaced (take it and run with it!!)

30 points