You sneak around the back of the house in the dark and notice the back door is unlocked. You slowly open the screen door, the rusty hinges announce your arrival. No one responds as you step into the house. Walking quietly through the kitchen you notice a glow from the fireplace in the living room. You spot the homeowner sleeping on the couch.... You quietly creep over the fire place and pick up the fire hot poker lying in the fire. Lifting it above your head, you bring it crashing down on your victim's skull. You then place the blood stained poker back into the fire. You ransack the house of the valuables and run out the back door. The detective agency wants to ask you a few questions.....

Unknowingly to your lovely spouse, you have been attracted to a co-worker for the past year. After a heated argument at home you tell your spouse that you have to attend a sales meeting late Friday night and that you will be home late. You call this co-worker and meet up at the local drive-in. While explaining your crumbling marriage, a hug leads a kiss and soon your are involved in a hot steamy affair. Your marriage is in question and the detective agency wants to interview you. Your spouse will be present!

While walking through a local mall you noticed a music store with a bin full of cassettes for sale. These were the type of cassettes that you wanted. You had to have these tapes and you knew that you couldn't afford them. You scanned the store and notice that the only clerk is busy helping a customer. You grab the tapes and slide them into your coat pockets. Turning casually you walk out the store. You have been called in by the detective agency for an interview.
